

Talk Well

Talk about Money

How do you start talking about money? Begin by asking your parent(s) these questions:

Who taught you how to manage your money well?

What is the best money management advice you have ever received?

When do you feel most successful about money?

What have you learned from a money mistake?

Are you a saver or a spender? Why?

What is hardest about managing money well?

What did your parents teach you about money?

Why is it hard to talk about money?

How do you keep track of your money?

How do you get yourself to save money?
